SUNTEX UPDATES STATUS OF FLORIDA MARINAS AND SHARES PLANS FOR COMMUNITY SUPPORT

DALLAS, TEXAS – Suntex Marina Investors LLC (Suntex), the premier owner and operator of best-in-class marina properties, announced today an update on the post-Hurricane Irma status of its Florida-based marinas, as well as plans to support the boating community throughout the upcoming season.

Following an initial assessment of its 14 Florida-based marinas, Suntex properties have sustained minimal damage. As of today, all Suntex Marinas will be open for business and their Marine Service Centers are prepared to fully assist their customers and any boat owners throughout the state who have been affected by the storm. Specifics pertaining to each marina can be found at www.suntex.com/marinas/suntex-marine-services.

With significant damage to the U.S. and British Virgin Islands and Florida Keys, as well as recovery efforts still underway from previous storms in the Bahamas, boats 70-feet and up will likely remain in Florida from October through April. Fortunately, Suntex bolstered its Marine Services to enhance their customer experiences through customized and curated services. They will now be able to support the extended season by directly fostering the needs of not only its unique network of customers, but of any boat owner that ends up in their radius.

“We feel very fortunate to report that our Suntex staff is safe and sound and that, overall, our marinas throughout Florida weathered Irma successfully,” said Mitchell E. Jones, principal, Suntex. “Now we want to pay that good fortune forward by doing our part to support the greater Florida boating community by providing services and activities for those whose plans for the coming season have had to change as a result of damage to their property or intended destination.”

The Suntex portfolio of 45 marinas are located in California, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia.
