

Morgan Recreational Supply, Inc Acquired by Donovan Marine

Scott Scudder, owner and president of Morgan Recreational Supply, Inc. began his business in 1973. He grew up in Cape Cod working full time from when he was not quite old enough to do so. He spent a great amount of his time on the water sailing when he could.

When he completed his college education at Middlebury College, he moved to the Rochester area for work with Kodak as a chemist. He has lived here since and built his family, with his wife Alice, along with his business. When he left Kodak, it was to open his business in Fairport, NY. He started with a very small crew and worked 7 days a week. As the business grew he went from Fairport to Victor and then Victor to Farmington, where he built his warehouse facility. He provided full time employment for over 35 employees, many of which are still with him today. He created a business environment that is supported by many dealers, vendors and employees. All of which are grateful for his dedication and loyalty to all. His ideals always have been to make the dealer as successful as possible, and one he believes to this day.

He became very active in the state support of boating dealers in the upstate New York area. He was active in the NMDA and served on the board. He has been involved with many charitable and community organizations through his career.

The company has served many dealers in Upstate New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine through the years. Morgan Recreational Supply, Inc. is synonymous with the name of Scott Scudder.

Recently Morgan has been acquired by Donovan Marine, but will continue to operate under the Morgan Recreational Supply name. We wish both Scott and Alice a long and restful retirement.
