key growth component and a major contributor to the success of LCI during this time, and the promotion of Mr. Falk will help ensure the ongoing success of this strategy.

Jason Falk, a 1996 graduate of Alma College, began his career with LCI immediately after graduating by entering LCI's Leadership in Training program. Jason has overseen the operations of multiple divisions of LCI during his tenure, being directly responsible for those divisions' P&L, personnel, leadership, and overall growth and sustainability.

"Jason Falk has been a loyal teammate and friend for well over twenty years. Throughout his tenure at LCI, he's been directly responsible for the financial success of a number of LCI divisions. He has been involved with several acquisitions over the last couple years, most notably Taylor Made, which LCI acquired earlier this year," said Jason Lippert, LCI's CEO. Continued Lippert, "Jason's operation and team building experience, along with his vast knowledge of how LCI functions on a day-to-day basis, from its culture to its strategy, make him the perfect person to not only lead, but also grow, the M&A initiative at LCI."

"I am excited to enter into this next chapter in my journey with LCI," said Jason Falk. Continued Falk, "I'm appreciative for this opportunity to be directly involved with adding new products, team members, and customers to LCI through the M&A process. We have a stellar track record with our M&A initiatives. I look forward to the challenges ahead as we continue to grow our business."
