an outstanding woman who is actively involved in the marine industry with devoted service, untiring commitment, and the advancement of women in the marine business.

Pilkington began her career at Correct Craft in 1981 as temporary employee and worked her way to Administrative Assistant, Office Manager, Director of Administration, Vice President of Administration, Chief Operations Officer, Chief Financial Officer, and most recently, Executive Vice President/Chief of Staff, while raising a family and completing two degrees.

In Pilkington's current role she works with each Correct Craft subsidiary to drive major initiatives to both optimize their operations and execute strategic plans. She also mentors female employees throughout the organization as well as the employees who report to her.

Bill Yeargin, President and CEO of Correct Craft stated, "Angela is very deserving of this award. She has shown the ability to be a leader, mentor, and coach at all different levels as she's grown with the company and in the community. She is one of my trusted confidants and I have tremendous respect and admiration for her."
