ORR Releases Annual Report Outlining Efforts to Support GAOA, LWCF, Pandemic Response, Rural Economies & More

WASHINGTON, D.C. – “Outdoor recreation saw an incredibly collaborative and impactful year in 2020. This past year the outdoor recreation industry was able to come together like never before and help pass the largest piece of recreation legislation in decades and weather the impacts of COVID-19.

ORR is proud to release our 2020 Annual Report showcasing our efforts to lead a collaborative industry response to the pandemic, provide support for rural economic growth, bridge the gap between federal agencies and outdoor recreation, educate lawmakers on the importance of our industry and so much more. We’re proud of the work ORR’s membership has accomplished and look forward to another strong year.”

– Lindsey Davis, acting executive director, ORR
