National Marine Trades Council (NMTC) Celebrates 50th year with conference taking place July 10th to 13th on Cape Cod

The National Marine Trades Council has announced the dates and location for its 50th anniversary conference. After a 4-year hiatus, NMTC will return July 10th to 13th on Cape Cod with the host hotel being the Lighthouse Inn, in West Dennis, MA Lighthouse Inn. The NMTC conference is open to all leaders from local, state and national marine trades associations.

Kitty McGowan President of U.S. Superyacht Association and Lori Wheeler Vice President of the Marine Industries Association of South Florida serve as the NMTC Co-Chairs and noted this year's conference will be hosted by the Massachusetts Marine Trades Association. The conference agenda will include Association Management, Workforce Development, Boat Show Marketing and planning, Future of the recreational boating industry, Advocacy initiatives, Association profit center ideas and more. NMTC is considered a premier educational and networking event for association leaders. The conference offers a unique opportunity to share information and ideas with your colleagues from around the country.
