

LEWIS MARINE EXPANDS CHARLESTON WAREHOUSE

Lewis Marine Supply, a leading wholesale distributor of marine engines and parts, has doubled the footprint of its North Charleston, South Carolina warehouse. The company is strategically growing its distribution network to support expanding global OEM, boatbuilding, boatyard and retail customers.

The new space is within the same building as Lewis Marine's current operations. Upgrades include energy-efficient LED lighting throughout and the addition of a receiving clerk office. New personnel and a high top van enable twice-daily deliveries from the facility, with daily service from Wilmington, North Carolina to Jacksonville, Florida. Lewis Marine also has warehouses in Fort Lauderdale, Florida and Foley, Alabama.

"We've had a successful relationship with Lewis Marine Supply for five years and are pleased they've expanded the warehouse and delivery services," said Josh Berry, VP of sales & marketing for ProSpec Electronics, based in nearby Mt. Pleasant and one of Lewis' suppliers. "Their customer service representatives are an exceptional team." ProSpec manufactures and supplies high-performance outdoor OEM and aftermarket audio solutions; its website is www.prospecelectronics.com.

Founded in 1956, Lewis Marine Supply serves the boating industry by offering over 40,000 products from over 400 renowned manufacturers. It recently debuted HELM®, its proprietary online e-commerce platform.
